

ARBUCKLE MAY SHOW HAND AT FIRST HEARING

Hope to Decide Whether Comedian Will Face Trial By Jury.

PROBE SENSATION

Lie is Passed To Statement That Arbuckle Made Admission.

San Francisco, Sept. 22.—Whether or not Roscoe ("Fatty") Arbuckle, rolynd comedian of the movies, must face jury trial for murder was to be decided at the preliminary hearing on the charges against him opening in police court this afternoon.

The hearing was expected to give the first real inkling of the defense of Arbuckle against the charge of the state that he, by an attack, caused injuries, which resulted in the death of beautiful Virginia Rappe, "best dressed woman of the movies."

Today the defense has maintained an impenetrable silence but with cross examination of the witnesses to be placed on the stand by the state in an effort to secure commitment of Arbuckle to the trial before the superior court for murder the determined battle to free the former film star was to be under way.

The morning was spent in feverish preparation for the opening of the hearing. Frank Dominguez, chief of counsel for the defense, arrived from Los Angeles and plunged into conference with his associates, Milton Cohen and Charles H. Brennan.

On the same train came Al Semmacher, manager of the dead film actress, whose story before a Los Angeles grand jury yesterday injected a new sensation into the case. Semmacher was taken before District Attorney Brady for further questioning as his sworn statement that Arbuckle had admitted the commission of an act against Virginia Rappe which might have resulted in her illness.

Arbuckle's alleged admission was made, according to Semmacher, in the presence of Fred Fishback, Lowell Sherman and Harry McCullough.

Fishback has already been questioned regarding it and made, according to Brady, "an evasive reply."

To newspapermen, however, Fishback passed the lie to Semmacher's statement point blank, denying that Arbuckle had ever discussed in his presence what took place in the hotel room.

Lowell Sherman was apparently beyond questioning.

No word has been received from Sherman by District Attorney Brady since his disappearance on a train bound for New York City. A report was current here that Sherman was enroute for Europe when he left Los Angeles for the east.

District Attorney Brady, however, was of the opinion that Sherman would return as a witness. Should he fail to do so voluntarily, it was intimated an indictment will bring about his extradition.

Harry McCullough, Arbuckle's chauffeur was to be questioned regarding his knowledge of the alleged Arbuckle admission.

District Attorney Brady planned a brisk presentation of his case against Arbuckle. He anticipated that one full day would enable him to lay his case before Police Judge Sylvian Lazarus. As an evidence that he expected the defense to make strenuous efforts to free Arbuckle at his hearing it was shown by his estimate that the defense might take two days.

Defense attorneys made no estimate.

Judge Lazarus, before whom the case was heard, had three courses open to him after hearing the evidence:

- 1—Hold the prisoner for trial for murder.
- 2—Hold him for trial on any degree of murder including manslaughter.
- 3—Dismiss all charges against Arbuckle, his would not affect the manslaughter indictment pending.

KEEP POLITICS AND BUSINESS SEPARATE URGES SECRETARY OF LABOR IN SPEECH

Columbus, Sept. 22.—"The best thing we can do in America is to keep politics and business apart," declared Secretary of Labor Davis, addressing guests at a luncheon given in his honor by officials of the Columbus chamber of commerce.

"Whenever we mix government in business, politics creep in and, after that, trouble," continued Secretary Davis. "Let us not meddle too much in the internal affairs of business and industry, but rather, leave those affairs to practical men who understand them, helping and encouraging them in every possible way."

Discussing the American worker, Secretary Davis said:

"We have only to meet the American workman's active thrift with a

FORCE OF SERBIANS COMMENCE INVASION OF ALBANIA LAND

Troops Disguised as Mountaineers Begin Activities.

Geneva, Sept. 22.—A Serbian force, disguised as Albanian mountaineers, has begun an invasion of Albania, according to a telegram circulated here today by the Albanian delegation for benefit of delegates to the league of nations meeting.

"The Albanian militia is opposing the attacks of the Serbian army in the Drin valley," said the statement. "The Serbian forces bombarded this valley for a long time, forcing the Albanians to flee from this sector."

COMPLAIN FAILURE OF VEHICLES TO DISPLAY LIGHTS

Washington C. H., Sept. 22.—Complaint is being made that many horse-drawn vehicles on the roads after nightfall are failing to show lights as required by law, and as a result are in real danger of being run down by automobiles since the new anti-glare law has become effective and vehicles are not so easily seen unless bearing a light.

Under the law an unlighted vehicle owner cannot collect damages for injuries but is himself liable for accident which may befall as result of his vehicle not bearing a light.

Official action may be taken against some of the offenders in order to compel the showing of a light on horse drawn vehicles.

Entire Medical Staff of French Army of Occupation of Rhine Rushed to Ludwigshafen—Hundreds Families Homeless After Explosion.

Paris, Sept. 22.—The explosion that wrecked the Oppau plant of the Badische Anilin- und Fabrik company is thought by some to have been the result of experiments with new war gases, telegraphed the Oppau correspondent of La Libre this afternoon. More than 900 bodies have been recovered.

The factory was completely gutted and the damage estimate has risen to several billions of marks.

Berlin, Sept. 22.—The entire medical staff of the French army of occupation of the Rhine arrived at Ludwigshafen today to assist in treating the vast number of persons who were injured in the gigantic explosion which wrecked the plant of the Badische Anilin- und Fabrik Company at Oppau with a total loss of life, estimated at 1200.

About two thousand persons were injured. All the hospitals in Ludwigshafen and Mannheim are crowded and scores of public buildings and private houses have been converted into hospitals.

General De Goutt, commander in chief of the French army of occupation and a detachment of French troops have arrived on the scene to assist the Germans in relief work. Hundreds of families are homeless.

Following an investigation officials of the company issued a statement saying that the blast had occurred in a ware house containing 200 tons of ammonium sulphate. The exact cause is not yet known.

The little suburb of Oppau on the Rhine was a scene of desolation and woe and the whole countryside for miles around bore witness of the force of the explosion.

Doctors, ambulances and medical supplies have been rushed to Ludwigshafen from all the nearby cities.

Thousands of workmen, volunteers and soldiers are engaged in searching the wreckage of the factories and homes for bodies.

Temporary morgues have been erected all around the scene of the explosion and today they presented scenes of pathos. Frantic women besieged the buildings, searching for missing fathers, husbands, brothers and sons.

Police guard has been established around the morgues and it was all they could do to hold back the screaming, weeping, surging masses. Every family in the wrecked town had suffered bereavement and many persons far distant from the scene had been killed either by the shock or by flying debris.

Many of the bodies were so badly torn and mangled as to make identification impossible. It is expected that a public funeral will be held for those.

Some of the victims were completely blown to pieces making it uncertain that the exact number of killed will ever be known.

The rescue workers had a gruesome task. As they tore through the mass of wreckage they came upon human legs and arms and bodies from which the heads had been torn.

Graphic stories were told by survivors. They said that there was a dull roar, followed by a burst of flame and then a terrific detonation which shook the earth like an earthquake. An enormous cloud of black and greenish smoke rolled upwards in clouds.

The seismograph instruments in the school at Stuttgart sixty miles away recorded tremors similar to those made by an earthquake.

Two hundred residents of Mannheim were killed and 200 were injured.

After the explosion living workmen fled covered with blood and grime, fighting their way through the thick clouds of chemical fumes. Many of them were naked as they had just completed bathing after their shift in the works when the explosion let go.

Iron gates in the plant were torn to pieces like paper. Strong wooden beams were reduced to toothpicks. Enormous steel tanks were crushed together and blew up like a line of exploding soap bubbles. Farmers in their fields two miles from the plant were killed by the shock.

The wartime bombardment of Oppau, Mannheim and Ludwigshafen by allied aviators were nothing compared to the explosion of yesterday.

Late dispatches estimate the total damage at 200,000,000 marks (normally $48,000,000) of which 138,000,000 marks is covered by insurance.

At the Mannheim offices of the Badische aniline company it was learned that 4,000 tons of saltpetre that was stored in the plant had exploded. The saltpetre had previously been examined and pronounced safe and "unexplodable."

Appau was a war town. It grew up around the dye plant which was erected for the manufacture of poison gas during the war.

It was only a few miles from Mannheim. It was one of the first places where poison gas was manufactured for war purposes.

When the factory was converted back to an aniline dye plant, Oppau continued as a thriving community.

The Badische Company or the Baden Dye Works, is the biggest producer of dyes in Germany. The plant at Oppau was said to have employed 3,500 persons.

The red cross has started relief expeditions for the scene.

Scores of families are camping in the open. Many are cooking their meals on the smoking debris. Ammonia fumes permeate the atmosphere many miles around.

Many French soldiers were injured. They were on ten French Rhine boats which patrol the river near Mannheim. French troops, both black and white now are on duty at Oppau.

Three hundred of the dead have been identified, according to a message from Mannheim today.

Russia to Negotiate For Settlement of Her Debt

Plans and Hopes of Soviet Outlined By Trade Commissioner—Will Attempt to Prevent Recurrence Of Famine By Irrigation.

Berlin, Sept. 22.—Soviet Russia intends to enter into negotiations with England and France for settlement of the national debts which Russia contracted in those countries under the old czarist regime, Leonid Krassin, bolshevik trade commissioner told the International News Service today.

In the most important interview that has ever come from an official of the Moscow government, M. Krassin outlined the following plans and hopes of the soviet.

1—Construct an irrigation system in the Volga district to assist agriculture and prevent a recurrence of famines such as Russia is now suffering.

2—Rehabilitate the nation commercially, industrially and agriculturally as the United States was reconstructed after the Civil war.

3—Meet foreign debts and restore the normal value of Russian money.

4—Secure vast supplies outside of Russia through long time credits.

M. Krassin admitted that the Russian ruble whose value before the war was fifty cents in United States money has depreciated fifteen thousand times. This means that 300 paper Russian rubles could now be purchased in Russia for the value of one American cent.

The soviet official was seen at the soviet embassy which was recently opened in Berlin for trade and diplomatic purposes. At the outset he produced a book and as he tapped the back of it with his finger he exclaimed:

"Here are plans to prevent a recurrence of the Volga famine. Such famines were recurrent under the czars. We intend to build canals and dams to retain the water of the winter snows which will insure a rotation of crops. Before the work can be done we must purchase excavating machinery, trucks, tractors, road rollers and concrete mixers."

"The question of making payment is a different one. A vast tract of

GRAVEST COAL CRISIS ABOUT TO STRIKE U. S.

Experts Predict Famine Will Confront Land in 60 Days.

SEE CAR SHORTAGE

Matter Will Become a Question Of Transportation.

Washington, Sept. 22.—The gravest coal crisis confronting the nation in years is due within the next sixty days, experts forecast today.

Nothing short of a coal famine during the coming winter sees the mid-west and northwest which are supplied by the bituminous coal fields according to present indications.

The weekly production of bituminous coal has been nearly 2,500,000 tons short of normal. When the "rush season" begins, which will be about the middle or end of October, railroads will not have enough cars to move coal, it is predicted.

"From then on it will be a question of transportation," said John B. Pratt of the National Coal Association today. "There has been a shortage of cars for the last three years. There is no possibility of the railroads getting enough cars to supply the demand for winter coal. In the mid-west and the northwest it will be impossible to relieve the suffering that will result, for the householders will be affected as well as industries and public utilities."

There will not be enough coal moved to keep street car and electric light plants going, not to mention industries, that may be operating.

"I speak only of the bituminous coal situation. We urged the public all summer to lay in their winter coal supply, knowing this critical situation would arise. If coal prices are high now, they are bound to be higher when winter comes."

"Prices always rise when there is a shortage in any commodity," said Pratt. "It is the retail dealer, however, who fixes the price of coal for the consumer, not the wholesaler, and only the retailers can forecast the size of the householders coal bill the coming winter."

TOTAL INCREASE AT Q. S. U. NOW 772

Columbus, Sept. 22.—Yesterday it rained. Most everyone was damp, some were wet, but Ohio State University students, attending classes for the first time this year, were soaked.

Those who had "eight o'clocks" started out without protection against the weather, for the sun was shining in all its glory. But at ten, the down-pour started, and it lasted until late classes, scurrying from one building to another in order to keep out of the rain as much as possible. More of them, however, were "among those absent" when the first attendance of the year was taken.

J. Pluvius didn't halt registration, though, in the slightest. Although the opening date of college last year was as pleasant, meteorologically speaking, as could be imagined, 108 more students registered yesterday than on the same date last year.

At the time of closing of the burzars office last night, 651 students sars office last night, 651 students had paid their fees and were enrolled in the university, 772 more than at this time last year when 5629 had registered.

OHIO BEET SUGAR INDUSTRY FACES NEW PERIL IS WORD

Will Be Choked Unless Freight Rates Are Reduced.

Columbus, Sept. 22.—That the Ohio beet sugar industry will be choked by the Cuban and Eastern sugar interests, unless railroad freight rates in Ohio are reduced is the claim made by F.R. Hathaway, secretary-treasurer of the Toledo Sugar Company, testifying at the hearing being conducted by the state utilities commission relative to the railroad freight rate situation in Ohio.

Similar testimony was offered by representatives of other Ohio sugar companies who desire that freight rates be reduced before beet shipments start early in October.

Declaring that the rate on limestone, a low grade material is 39.8 cents compared with the average freight rate, on all commodities, high and low grades, in Ohio of 29.9 cents, per car per mile, C. B. Hutchings Chicago traffic manager of the American farm bureau federation, told the commission that the rate on limestone should be lowered at least to 25 cents.

ENGINEERS FIND MAGNESIUM PISTON ADDS TO CAR'S LIFE

New Metal Lighter Than Aluminum

Magnesium alloy pistons are looked forward to by automotive engineers to produce greater durability in the automobile engine and help reduce the weight of the car.

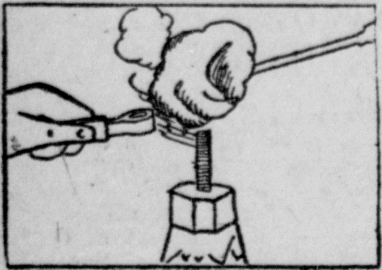

Engineers have decided on this form of piston after finding that the so-called aluminum pistons were not wholly satisfactory. In the aluminum piston there is a percentage of copper which is intended to reduce the rate of expansion. But the copper picks up impurities with the result that magnesium is being substituted for the copper.

Tests are now being made with pistons having as much as 90 per cent magnesium in their construction. Although this form has very low expansion and high tensile strength it heats up quickly. At the present time, also, the cost of magnesium is about twice that of aluminum.

But lighter weight, greater toughness and strength, and increased durability will compensate for the price of metal, say engineers.

MATCH SUBSTITUTE

If in need of a light and without a match, here is a substitute: Tie a piece of waste dampened with gasoline to a screw driver. Remove the cap to a spark plug and place it near enough to make a spark jump across. By inserting the cloth between the two, the spark will ignite the gasoline.

RENEWED BATTERY

A "sick" storage battery may be made as good as new, by a good cleaning. The way to do it without renewing the plates, is to invert the battery and empty all old electrolyte out of it. By supporting the battery on two boxes a stream of water can be directed into it so that all sediment may be washed out. After it is fully drained out, the battery may be refilled.

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

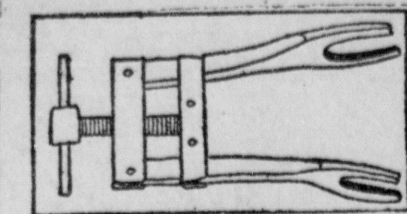

It never fails to relieve the torment of a disfigurement. Sufferers from skin trouble should get a little jar of Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like a cold cream.

BATTERY TESTER

A helpful accessory that keeps motorists informed as to the condition of the storage battery is this simple instrument. It consists of a cadmium rod, at one end of which is a small light, and a steel prod connected to the cadmium by insulated wire. As the cadmium attracts only negative current, it will attract any that is in the battery solution. Placed there with the steel prod against a positive terminal, the light will not burn brightly unless the current is fully charged.

EIGHTY PER CENT OF CORN CROP IS PAST DANGER OF FROST

More than 80 percent of the corn crop of the State is estimated to be past danger from frost and about 40 percent of the crop is cut according to reports received by C. J. West, State Federal Agricultural Statistician.

It is estimated that 70 percent of silo filling is completed. From 5 to 15 cents per shock is being paid by farmers for cutting corn with a state average of a little less than 9 1-2 cents. In several sections of the State wages are being paid by the hour instead of by the shock. The acreage plowed for wheat this fall apparently shows considerable reduction in some counties by taking the State as a whole there will not be a great reduction. Neither is there evidence of a strong tendency on the part of farmers to reduce the wheat acreage for next year.

In some sections of the northern part of the State corn cutting has been three weeks earlier than usual and generally cutting is farther along in the Northern sections than in the Southern part of state and the percent of corn past danger from frost is naturally greater in the earlier matured sections. The silo filling is about three-fourths done except in the Northwestern counties where the work of filling is about half completed. The highest rate for corn cutting was reported from Hamilton county where as high as 15 cents has been paid by some farmers. In the Northwestern counties as low a rate as 5 and 6 cents is reported. The supply of labor for corn cutting is reported as ample in practically all counties.

IS OLD FASHIONED TRAIN COMING BACK

With the reopening for the season of the Italian Garden in the fashionable Ambassador Hotel on Park Avenue, New York, the other night, it was noted that many prominent society women who dined wore evening gowns in which old-time trains were an important feature. "Is it possible that trains are coming back into favor?" asked one Fifth Avenue modiste who happened to be at the dinner. "It is all startling to me. I was not aware of the fact that trains were coming into vogue again and I am at a loss to know where these gowns emanated from unless these women brought them back from Paris."

One of the trains, worn by a woman who is noted for setting the pace in fashions, was belled out at the top as though a semi-circle had been cut out of it; it is caught to either side of the gown; it is wide at the top but narrows off to a sharp leaf point. Among the other gowns noted was the regal cape-shaped trains falling from the shoulders and covering the whole of the gown behind. Another fashionable style is that in which the drapings and folds are so arranged as to completely conceal all seams and joins. On gowns of gold or silver tissue the wings were often of black cire lace, sometimes with a thread of gold or silver running through it. Artificial flowers are also being used in abundance this season. There is no arbitrary rule as to the manner in which they are to be worn; they are tucked into the belt, trail down one side of the gown, follow the line of the train, provide the bands over the shoulders on an evening gown, form a lattice work and constitute the tiny sleeves.

KU KLUX KLAN MAY BE SUMMONED

Washington, Sept. 22.—Officials of the Ku Klux Klan may be asked to come to Washington to consult with department of Justice officials relative to the affairs of that organization, Attorney General Daugherty indicated today.

The attorney general said that no decision had been reached yet as to whether the government will take action against the Klan. He suggested, however, that if action is deemed necessary that may be it can best be brought about through state court procedure.

The couple was unattended. The bride wore for the ceremony a suit of dark blue, with a becoming hat of the same shade. Following their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Hickman went immediately to housekeeping on Leeman street. Mr. Hickman is employed on the Pennsylvania Lines.

MRS. DAVID R. GORDON SERIOUSLY HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT IN PENNSYLVANIA

DR. AND MRS. DAVID R. GORDON

Mrs. David R. Gordon, wife of Dr. David R. Gordon, of this city, prominent missionary of India is in the Washington, Pennsylvania, Hospital suffering from injuries received when the automobile which was driven by Dr. Gordon, skidded and overturned on a hill on the National pike, just east of West Alexander, Tuesday.

Dr. Gordon was bruised and slightly cut, and his father-in-law, Walker Williamson, of this city, who was also in the car received slight injuries and they were taken to the home of Dr. Huber Ferguson, pastor of the First U. P. church at Washington.

Word of the accident was received Thursday by Rolla D. Williamson, of this city, from Walker Williamson. The party left here Monday, and according to Mr. Williamson's letter, had encountered heavy rainstorms in the east. "We had our curtains all on tight, and as we were going down a steep hill, for some reason the machine suddenly skidded, and instantly we were hurled over the bank," stated Mr. Williamson in telling of the accident. "The auto turned completely round, and upset and we were all pinned under the car. The curtains were all so completely fastened that we could not escape."

Mr. Gordon and Mr. Williamson were seated in front, with Mrs. Gordon in the back seat alone. Passers-by found the wrecked car and extricated the party. It was thought at the time that Mrs. Gordon had been killed since she did not regain consciousness for some time.

The extent of Mrs. Gordon's injuries had not been determined Tuesday night. She seemed to be suffering from shock and it was thought that she was injured internally when caught beneath the car.

Country Club, St. Louis, Sept. 22.—The foremost amateur golfers in the United States and the champion of Great Britain were still at it on Missouri's inquisitive soil today when third round matches were played in the national amateur golf championship. Weather conditions were ideal for low scoring.

Without eight survivors remaining in the field the east, the west, the northwest, the south and Great Britain were represented. Today's matches brought these players into action:

Jesse Guilford, Boston via Harrison Johnson, St. Paul.

Chick Evans, Chicago, vs Jesse Sweetser, New York.

Bobby Jones, Atlanta vs Willie Hunter England.

Ruddy Knepper, Sioux City, vs Bob Gardner, Chicago.

The international match with Jones, long rated as one of America's greatest home bred and Hunter the British champion, attracted the largest gallery of the week.

HEAVY DAMAGE IS CAUSED BY STORMS IN PARTS OF OHIO

Zanesville, Sept. 22.—Many visitors from the nearby communities from the nearby countryside poured into the city today while scores of workers removed from the streets the debris caused by the high wind attending the storm which hit Zanesville yesterday. Business was partially resumed.

Revised estimate place the injured at eight persons and the property loss at nearly $300,000. Tornado insurance was carried on only a few of the buildings wrecked.

Columbus, Sept. 22.—One life was lost and damage estimated at hundreds of thousands of dollars was done yesterday by a "twister" in eastern and southern Ohio. The storm was most severe at Zanesville where the resultant property loss was fixed at $200,000 and where two persons were injured by falling slate and timbers.

At Zanesville the tornado swept the business section at noon and scores of persons had narrow escapes from injury. The storm broke almost without warning and lasted less than five minutes. An ominous cloud rolled up from the west accompanied by a low moaning sound and a moment later the air was filled with flying debris from unroofed buildings.

The full force of the Zanesville "twister" was spent in three city blocks in Main St., from Sixth to Ninth Sts., and the bulk of damage was on the south side of Main street. Buildings were unroofed, chimneys hurled to the ground and the street was swept of signs and every unfastened object. A number of motorists were injured by debris being blown through the tops of their cars. The path of the storm was estimated at less than 100 feet wide.

Roy Burt and W. C. Cramble were most seriously hurt at Zanesville. They were hit by falling slate and timbers.

Clyde Sherman, 35, was killed and hundreds of Cleveland streets and basements were flooded when a lashing rainstorm accompanied by a 48 mile an hour wind swept over the city. Sherman was shocked to death at a coal yard loading station when a short circuit on a loading machine he was operating sent 200 volts through his body as he leaned against the machine in switching on the current while standing in water.

Floods resulting from a cloud-burst at Cornin, at the headwaters of Sunday Creek, caused hundreds of persons to flee to the hills from the lowlands between Glouster and Athens. Glouster, Corning and Trimble suffered heavy damage. Several large coal mines were reported to have been flooded. Bridges were wrecked and rail and telephone service crippled. The New York Central Railroad yards at Corning were badly damaged and the Kanawha and Michigan line washed out at Glouster.

Much live stock was drowned in Athens County. Late last night the Hocking River was reported rising rapidly.

At Bellaire fields of corn were washed away, homes flooded and live stock drowned in the lowlands of the McMahon Creek Valley as result of a cloudburst. A second deluge later in the day flooded streets from curb to curb. At Newell a Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad bridge was washed out.

A severe storm which passed over Gallipolis also left destruction in its wake. The steamer Liberty was struck by lightning, torn loose from its moorings and blown across the Ohio River. The crew and passengers escaped injury.

At Bridgeport 3.5 inches of rain were reported to have fallen in the 26 hours ending at 2 p. m. yesterday. The National Road between that point and Blaine was covered with debris from the hillsides and trolley traffic through Martins Ferry was halted when clogged culverts flooded the streets. A branch of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad will be out of commission two days as a result of washouts.

Three miles south of Steubenville two bridges were washed out and interurban service between Mingo and Brilliant was tied up for more than eight hours.

At Canton one man was injured and several houses were badly damaged during a severe electrical storm. A. T. Caldwell was injured when lightning almost wrecked his home.

INDICATIONS POINT TO OIL PRESENCE IN GREENE COUNTY

"There are surface indications of both oil and gas in the land that I have been investigating, the oil being apparent around natural springs on the land and at times the gas being in such quantities that it is inflammable."

So says B. T. Pritchard, Home Avenue, oil investigator, who is signing leases with forty farmers in the Maple Corner neighborhood preparatory to starting wells in the hope of locating oil fields on the land. He was interviewed in the office of F. W. Dunkle, his legal adviser, who is acting for him in signing leases that cover an area of land a mile wide and three or four miles in length.

Mr. Pritchard is a Pennsylvania railroad conductor, and although he has been investigating the presence of oil in that district for seven years, the progress of securing leases has been impeded by the fact that he is only able to devote part time to the enterprise due to his railroad work.

Originally of West Virginia, in an oil-field section, Mr. Pritchard was reared among oil people and has thus learned the oil game through personal investigation. Practically all of his relatives in that state are interested in oil projects.

During the seven years of his investigations, which represents the time he has lived in this city, Mr. Pritchard says farmers on the land he was investigating did not learn of his purpose. It was not until he was reasonably certain that oil can be found in the section in question, that he divulged the cause of his investigations to the land owners and arranged a plan of leases with them, by which they receive one-eighth of the production should oil be found. The leases are to be cancelled in two years if the enterprise is not successful.

Although admitting that he has no practical financial support back of his enterprise, Mr. Pritchard is not yet ready to divulge the source of his backing, beyond an explanation that his financial support is not coming from the farmers with whom he is signing leases. It is now known that practical oil men, called here by Mr. Pritchard, have been investigating the oil indications for the last three years, which is assurance that the prospects are considered good.

"Work of drilling will be started as soon as all the leases can be signed up and the drilling operations gotten under way," said Mr. Pritchard. "The test well, which will be drilled first, will be more expensive than any others it may be necessary to drill afterward. The costs depends on the oil conditions and depth. It is impossible to state how far it will be necessary to drill to reach the oil or in what quantities it will be obtained. The indications are that the crude oil found will be a light oil of good quality rather than a heavy oil."

Attorneys representing the various farmers involved in the oil scheme are now working on the leases for their clients. Some of these leases have been in the hands of the farmers for several months, to give them plenty of opportunity to give the plan full consideration, and Mr. Pritchard has worked conservatively and quietly in his operations.

While not predicting an oil boom for Xenia in the event of the drilling being successful he conservatively prophesied an "enriched business."

HAYS ALSO WILL START PROBE OF KU KLUX KLAN

Washington, Sept. 22.—Following closely the statement that the department of justice was investigating the Ku Klux Klan, Postmaster Hays, in his conference with newspaper men, disclosed that agents of his department also were inquiring into the activities of the organization.

Mr. Hays declined to say on what angle the investigation was being made and said he was not yet ready to make a statement concerning the matter.

"I cannot discuss that now," the postmaster general said, "further than to say that the inspection service is making a vigorous investigation of the Ku Klux Klan."

Information in the hands of the department of justice as to the activities of the Ku Klux Klan was laid before President Harding by Attorney General Daugherty, after the latter had conferred with Director Burns of the department's bureau of investigation.

President Harding was understood to have approved the decision of the attorney general to take up consideration of whether federal action should be taken with respect to any activities of the organization.

COL. PATRICK NEW AIR SERVICE HEAD

Washington, Sept. 22.—Colonel Mason Mathews Patrick, engineers corps, was nominated yesterday by President Harding to be chief of the air service with the rank of Major General.

The nomination of Colonel Patrick who served as chief of American Expeditionary air service, did not come as a surprise in army circles. His name has been mentioned continuously since it became known last week that Major General Moncher had asked to be released as head of the air service.

In order that Secretary Weeks might have a friend in organizing that branch of the army, Brigadier General Mitchell, assistant chief presented his resignation also but Mr. Weeks said today that he had agreed to withdraw it and remain as assistant chief at least for the present.

This Well Known Performer, Whose Whistling Numbers Were Made Famous by Edison Records, Made This Weighty Statement Some Time Ago.

"Nerv-Worth has done wonders for me," said Mr. Seibert. "When I read so much about what it has done for others, I was rather dubious about it, but I finally decided to try it, for I was very much run down and nervous. Some time ago I purchased a bottle of Nerv-Worth and used it regularly before meals and at bed time, and I began to improve from the first dose. I only used one bottle and I gained seven pounds in weight. I could eat anything, including a number of articles of diet the doctors had told me not to eat. I sleep so well that I have to be called several times before waking. My nerves are quieted and strong and altogether I feel like a new man." People from all walks of life give endorsement to Nerv-Worth because it gives results. McGannon at East 9th and Hamilton when Harold Kagy was fatally shot.

She will face a prosecution for contempt of court, and is the sixth person to be charged with this offense growing out of the McGannon prosecutions.

MRS. FRED NEWTON CURED HAY FEVER BY KERKER REMEDY

Well Known Resident of Dresden, Ohio, Suffered for 11 Years

"I was down in bed with hay fever, from which I have suffered for 11 years, when, in desperation, my husband secured a bottle of Kerker's Asthma and Hay Fever preparation," says Mrs. Fred Newton, of Dresden, Ohio. "I got wonderful results with the very first bottle. That was last summer. I took three bottles all together and I did not have a sign of fever after that, I am cured."

"The results I got from the Kerker remedy are all the more wonderful when you consider how badly I had the hay fever. In the 11 years I suffered from it I had tried many other medicines and treated with physicians, but got little or no relief. "The Kerker remedy will certainly do the work if directions are followed. (Signed) MRS. FRED NEWTON, Dresden, Ohio.

His action followed the serving of papers on him in the divorce action filed by his wife, and the note indicating suicide was found by Mrs. Lees after the restaurant had been broken into.

Mrs. Lees is now operating the restaurant.

WHITE HOUSE MAIL BAG TELLS ELOQUENT STORY OF PUBLIC'S HOPE FOR PARLEY.

President Harding has resumed his place at the helm of state with his summer holidays behind him and a season of responsibilities ahead of him in many respects unmatched in the history of the presidency. It is the event which will concentrate the thought of the world eight weeks hence—the Armament Conference—that takes front rank among Mr. Harding's concerns.

The President faces them fortified by a spirit of hopefulness that is as wide as the Republic itself. The White House mail bag since time immemorial has been a trusted index of American public opinion. Its contents in the last few weeks have left President Harding in no doubt of what the country thinks about the conference. Its expectations are high—almost too high—and its desires are sincere to the point of prayerfulness.

The people of the United States who pour out their hearts to "Dear Mr. President" are showing in their letters that Mr. Harding's concrete move to lift the "staggering burden" of armaments has awakened lively hopes throughout the Nation. The President is urged to stand fast for the ideals he has espoused. He is assured in poignant language that the country is with him wholeheartedly. He is asked to believe that disappointment will be boundless if substantial results do not ensue from the movement he has introduced.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA ASPIRES TO STATEHOOD BY ACT OF CONGRESS.

Washington and the District of Columbia no longer clamor merely for the vote. It is statehood they now aspire to. A project has been launched, which may soon emerge in the guise of a bill in Congress, to set up the "State of Columbia" with the full-fledged rights enjoyed by the other forty-eight stars in Old Glory. Frank Sprigg Perry, a Washington lawyer, has drawn up a brief contending that Congress has the power to give the District statehood by a majority vote without a constitutional amendment and State ratification. The Perry scheme provides for a recession of the City and County of Alexandria, Va., Washington's suburb across the Potomac, which was part of the original district, giving the "State of Columbia" an area of exactly 100 square miles and a population of 475,000.

KANSAS CITY'S GREAT CONSTRUCTION PROGRAM CUTS UNEMPLOYMENT.

Kansas city is doing today and has done in the last year and a half a greater amount of construction work proportionately than perhaps any other city of its size in America. This work is widespread, covering municipal, industrial and housing structures, and it probably explains the reduction of unemployed from 21,200 in January for the whole metropolitan district to 13,000 today.

Kansas Citizens declare they have not felt the depression so much as has the East. This is true only because the construction work has been such an offset. Analysis shows that in merchandising the same general conditions prevail as in Eastern cities, only not to so marked a degree.

Despite the large amount of new residential building, the housing shortage is acute. Furniture-storage warehouses are crowded with household goods, while many families are forced to live in cramped quarters.

Kansas City is a young whale. It is voracious in its business appetite. Its factory output approximates $2,000,000 a day. In this line packing-house products are pre-eminent, making up more than two-fifths of the total.

RHINE ARMY COSTS GIVEN.

Statistics showing costs of maintaining the various allied armies of occupation in the Rhineland from the beginning of the armistice to May 1, 1921, have been made public by the Reparations Commission. Figures computed by each Government concerned and furnished to the Reparations Commission show the maintenance cost of the United States forces of occupation to be $278,067,010; those of France 230,485,470 French francs; England £52,881,298; Belgium, 378,731,390 Belgian francs, and Italy, 15,207,717 French francs.

The maintenance cost per day for each soldier of the American occupation forces is placed at $4.50; France, 15.25 French francs ($1.05); England, 15 shillings ($3.60); Belgium, 16.50 Belgian francs, and Italy, 22 French francs.

The figures have not been fixed yet by the Reparations Commission as final, as it must decide what principles will govern the conversion into gold marks of the statements submitted by the various nations.

BETTER DAYS.

When young I worried under the ills that children know; my colic was a wonder, I had nine mumps or so. Then grandma made me swallow a stoup of castor oil; and life seemed vain and hollow, a thing of tears and toil. If sickness was disaster, the remedy was worse; the taste of oil of castor long weeks could not disperse. Then all our pills and potions refused to wear disguise, and they stirred up emotions this age can't realize. Then every ailing critter was doomed to drink a tea made up of yarbs as bitter as any yarbs can be. But science is a dandy, its triumphs never stop; our pills are now like candy, our bitters taste like pop. They used to hold our noses and pry our jaws apart, to pour down noxious doses designed to break the heart. The old time methods savored of martyrs at the stake, but now our dope is flavored like icing on a cake. And thus the world grows brighter in big and little ways, our burdens all grow lighter, and sunnier our days. My heart is light and tuneful, and full of glee I am, as I consume a spoonful of dope that tastes like jam.

1901--Twenty Years Ago--1921

We understand that quite a number of motomen on the Dayton and Xenia Transit Company have handed in their resignations to take effect Saturday night. Several of the men will take positions with the new Dayton and Greenville electric road.

Persons about the Pan Handle depot this morning had an opportunity of seeing Captain Hobson, the Hero of Santiago and the fellow who kissed all the girls in his line of travel from New York to the Pacific Coast. The annual rally at the First M. E. Church last night was a very successful affair. A large number were in attendance and the exercises were held in the lecture room of the church. Mr. Owen Tiffany and bride have arrived in Xenia and Owen is receiving the congratulations of his friends in this city on his marriage.

The Business Outlook

The following is from Forbes Magazine edited by B. C. Forbes and published at 299 Broadway, New York City. Mr. Forbes is considered the best financial writer in the country and his articles are written only after he has made a careful study of conditions in finance and industry.

The fall season ought to bring improvement in business activity for virtually every fundamental condition in this country warrants greater courage and renewed enterprise.

Every responsible citizen will follow events during the next thirty days with very close attention, as definite signs will be forthcoming as to whether the depression and unemployment are to continue during the fall and winter or whether pessimism and inaction are going to be thrown off.

There has been no scarcity of developments calculated to pave the way for the early return of better times. Buying centers are overrun with merchants in search of goods for immediate shipment. Bank clearings and other data reveal that the retail mercantile business is ahead of 1920 in volume.

Freer Money Beneficial. Monetary conditions favor resumption of normal industrial and trade activity. Interest rates for call money on the N. Y. Stock Exchange dipped as low as 1-2 percent; time money at 5-2 percent; and commercial paper can be discounted at 6 percent. Federal Reserve Banks and other banks are now encouraging the borrowing of money for legitimate commercial and agriculture purposes.

Progress toward financial rehabilitation and towards cheerfulness continues to be reported from the grain-growing states. Grain prices have held up and money has been available to move the new crops.

Market Prices Rising. People refrain from buying goods or securities during falling markets, but there is often a stampede to buy when the upward movement begins. Statistics show that during July wholesale commodity prices advanced 2 1/2 percent. Does this signify that the general downward trend in prices has run its course? My own opinion is that reduction which still remains to be made will be largely if not wholly balanced by moderate recoveries which have been selling below cost of production.

The strengthening of conditions in America has tended to dispel some of the intense gloom that has ruled all through this year, and as this betterment in sentiment becomes more pronounced more employment and more business should develop immediately. The material foundations have been laid.

MIDSEASON GOLF

This is the season in the golfers year when he ought to stop and take stock of himself, his equipment, his methods of play. Every golfer usually opens the season with his mind made up to play golf according to the rules which experience has shown to be right. Usually his will power begins to sag and he starts to acquire golfing mannerisms along about the second or third month of play, which unless caught young, will be fixed habits and prevent him from ever becoming a first class golfer. I suggest that every player look over his game carefully and do it this week.

Begin with your club. See if you are using a club which doesn't fit your physique. Many a player's game is spoiled by having a club too long or too short or one which is improperly weighted. These may look like small things to a beginner but they loom larger in the eyes of an experienced golfer. The old timer knows if a club is too short the ball is frequently topped or if the player bends too much in order to compensate for a short club the accuracy and control of his swing is impaired.

Look to your grip. Whether you have chosen the interlocking, the double V, the plain finger grip, make sure that you are doing it properly. These grips are all good if used right. Notice your stance and see if you have acquired any little mannerisms which make it hard for you to make a good drive from the tee. You may be unconsciously swinging your club as you would a baseball bat and that never can be good golf. Watch yourself when you play next and see if you are tensing your muscles, rather than playing each stroke with what I may call relaxed firmness. The player who knots his muscles up, as over a great muscular effort, cannot be a great golf player. Notice too whether or not you are letting your

A COLOR SCHEME

At this time of the year we are all beginning to think about our new costumes for the Fall and the Winter. The shops are showing new things every day and we are all particularly pleased because prices are really coming down.

The girl with the slender income should take care these days that she does not rush ahead and purchase all her clothes in a great burst of enthusiasm over the new models on display.

Before you begin your shopping at all you should plan out exactly what you are going to need for the coming season. First of all go over your last ments. Dark blue relieved with scarlet is an excellent color scheme or blue with grey if your tastes are quieter. In that case grey cloths, hat and shoes will serve for more than one dress. Your hand bag should never clash with your costume.

Mary—Your weight is exactly normal. If you send a stamped, addressed envelope, I will mail you an excellent hair tonic formula; meantime massage the scalp each day until you create a glow all over it, from the increased circulation.

Black Eyes—Consult the doctor about your health, as no one should have such trouble with the skin. If you are in good health eat properly and take a reasonable amount of exercise, the skin will need little more than good general care. Cosmetics will not cover damages done a skin that is being overworked through off impurities, created by a bad digestive system.

Teddy—You admit that you are too stout and say that you gain from three to five pounds each week from eating sweets, then ask me how you should acknowledge these gifts of candy? It sounds like a paradox and if you have any desire to retain this charm, which induces these boys to shower on you at these sweetmeats, I should suggest to them that I adored flowers and was thoroughly surfeited with candy.

STATE FISH AND GAME DEPARTMENT ENDORSED AT MEET

Resolution endorsing the State Fish and Game Department and its Chief Warden, A. C. Baxter; resolutions endorsing the passage of a Fishing License Bill, whereby the Hunter's License Fund will be relieved of a portion of the expense of the Fish and Game Department; resolutions asking that the lowering of water levels in state-owned lakes and reservoirs be stopped and that a federal law be passed to protect streams from pollution, were passed at the recent meeting of the League of Ohio Sportsmen, held in Columbus.

Copies of the minutes of the meeting have been received by the Greene County Fish and Game Protective Association, which is making the business of the meeting public. The resolution endorsing the present organization of the State Fish and Game Department asks that A. C. Baxter be kept at its head. The resolution urging passage of a Fishing License Bill, was designed because such a bill in addition to relieving some of the expense of the Fish and Game Department will provide sufficient funds for the erection of contemplated fish hatcheries and restocking of streams and the legislative committee of the organization was especially charged with the passage of such a law.

The resolution urging the passage of a federal law against stream pollution, specifies inter-state streams and asks that they be protected from either industrial waste or domestic sewage. The legislative committee which will urge the passage of such laws is composed of Dr. J. W. Kirgan, of Cincinnati; M. D. Scotten, of Toledo; H. H. Walcamp, of Springfield; and Roy McGregor, of Springfield.

Officers elected at the meeting were I. S. Myers, Akron, president; Dr. Charles T. Gallagher, Mt. Sterling, Vice-president; J. F. Atwood, Columbus, secretary and Tiffin Gilmore, Columbus, treasurer. The new directors are I. S. Myers, Akron, J. M. Gledhill, Warren, J. F. Atwood, Columbus, J. W. Preston, Coshocton, W. J. Reidel, Cleveland, Fred Stever, Defiance, C. T. Gallagher, Mt. Sterling and Tiffin Gilmore Columbus.

BABY BORN ON PEACE DAY

After Mother Had Been Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Salisbury, Mass.—"For seven years I had a female trouble and such bearing-down pains I could hardly do my housework. The doctor said, 'If you can have another baby it might be the best thing for you but I am afraid you cannot.' I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and my baby was born on 'Peace Day'. If women would only take your Vegetable Compound they would have better health. I always recommend your Vegetable Compound to the neighbors."—Mrs. TRACY FATTEN, 2 Lincoln Ave., Salisbury, Massachusetts.

The experience of maternity should not be approached without careful physical preparation, as it is impossible for a weak sickly wife to bring healthy children into the world. Therefore if a woman is suffering from a displacement, backache, inflammation, irritation, bearing-down pains, headache, nervousness or "the blues" she should profit by Mrs. Patten's experience, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and be restored to health.

DINNER STORIES

"What was the matter with that lady who just hurriedly left the store?" asked the grocer.

"She found fault with the potatoes," replied the clerk.
"What was the matter with the potatoes?"
"She didn't like the color of their eyes!"

Higgins got home one night to learn that his wife had given birth to triplets—three healthy, bouncing boys.

Higgins, overjoyed, went to the office next morning and recounted the rare and wonderful thing which had befallen him. The chief clerk congratulated him heartily, and the next day Higgins was sent for.

He hurried to the office again, to find the entire firm assembled there. A handsome silver cup stood on the mantel, and this trophy, in an eloquent speech, the chief presented to him in recognition of the triple blessing which he had bestowed upon his country.

Higgins took the cup in his hand, bowed respectfully and said:

"Excuse me, sir, but is this cup mine now, or do I have to win it three years in succession?"

Busy little man rushes into phone booth, sends message, comes out, leaving booth the only vacant one in row. Another man steps up, halts and reads sign on door, "This Phone Out of Order." Turns to clerk and asks: "Is this phone out of order?" Clerk looks puzzled and says: "No."

Busy little man says up. "That's all right," he explains. "I put that sign there. I told a party to call me on that phone and I hung up that sign so the phone wouldn't be busy when the call came."

No mere man can hope to understand the principles which govern feminine fashions. A man went with his wife while she bought some dress goods.

"This stuff," he said, "is pretty and would make you a good dress."

"That!" said the wife in contempt.

"Nobody is wearing that now!"
"Then how about this?" asked the husband, indicating another sort.
"Oh, that wouldn't do at all. Everybody's wearing that!"

A crowd about a rigging attracted the attention of a sad-eyed individual who seemed to be still visibly affected by the succession of hang-overs that had marked his life before the long dry spell began.

"What's matter?" he inquired.
"Oh, we're just watching the work."

"What work?"
"This is a drilling machine."
"What are they drilling for?"
"Water."

As the shaky individual turned to move away he muttered with fervor most intense:
"And to think we'd ever come to this."

"This long, dark hair on your coat, Henry?"
"Oh—er—a horsehair, my love."
"Most likely. And no doubt you got it in an automobile?"

"Exactly, my dear. The seat covering was worn through and some of the stuffing came out."

"How you gonna celebrate the Glorious Fourth this year?"
"Oh, with powder—I guess that's dry enough to suit the prohibitionists."

OHIO FEDERATION OF CHURCHES TO MEET

Columbus, Sept. 22.—The 1922 program will be planned and reports of the past year's work considered at the annual meeting of the Council of the Ohio Federation of Churches here November 3, according to an announcement made today by Rev. B. F. Lamb, secretary of the federation. The council, the governing body of the federation, is made up of representatives named by the participating denominations.

As the rural church survey of Ohio, the federation's chief activity during the past year, will be completed this fall, the administrative committee will recommend to the council an educational program for next year designed to inform the public regarding the facts of the Ohio church situation, as revealed by the survey. It was stated. Preliminary to this activity, it was announced, county interdenominational conferences will be held this fall in the 83 counties which did not have such meetings last spring.

Important Club Feature
An important element in successful club work is emphasized in a message this week from Miss Alice Boardman, chairman of library extension for the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs. "Travel is not necessary for gaining knowledge of other races and countries," she says "for this same knowledge and understanding can be gleaned from reading the proper books."

Miss Boardman would have all children taught to know the outstanding figures in American literature. "Let me urge every parent to read to the children every day of their lives until they are able to read for themselves," she declares. "Let me urge you to recognize the importance of this reading, for we all know full well that the early years are the impressionable years. Your librarian will be glad to select and furnish the books you will need. Your efforts and your sacrifices will be repaid a hundredfold in the happy hours your children will never forget."

Miss Boardman's address is State Library, Statehouse, Columbus.

Better Schools, Better Roads
Chesapeake club women are placed in a class of "superlative progressive." Better roads and better schools are engaging their attentive consideration and they mean to have both, according to Mrs. E. M. Martindill, president of the Woman's Mutual Improvement Club at Chesapeake. "We are thinking, reading and studying as never before to keep pace with 'Friend Husband' and in the making of better wives and mothers," writes Mrs. Martindill.

The Chesapeake Woman's Mutual Improvement Club has supported a French orphan for four years and expects to do so another year. It is planning to do some club extension work this year and effect the organization of clubs in two or three neighboring towns.

"Let me say to the woman who is restless and seeking new interests—join a club," Mrs. Martindill observes. "You will find greater and warmer friendships and time well spent. With the enfranchisement comes a new responsibility."

Seventeen club women from Nelsonville, the girlhood home of the Ohio Federation's president, Mrs. William H. Sharp, Columbus, will

TWO GOOD LUNCHEONS

Rice and Cheese En Casserole
Tea Chocolate Fudge Cake
Preserves

Rice and Cheese En Casserole—Wash and pick over 1 cup of rice. Soak overnight. Cook till tender in boiling salted water, keeping an excess of water to prevent rice from sticking and to keep the grains separate. Now melt 3 tablespoons of butter in the upper part of a double boiler, add 3 tablespoons flour and 1 teaspoon salt and mix to a smooth paste; add 1 1/2 cups of sweet milk and cook, stirring steadily, until this sauce is thick, then add 1 cup of grated or finely chopped cheese and let it melt (still stirring.) Grease a medium sized casserole and place in it alternate layers of the cooked rice and the hot cheese sauce, having the sauce layer on top. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake till well heated through and crumbs are brown (about 1 1/2 hour in a good oven.) Serve hot.

Chocolate Fudge Cake—Cream 1/4 cup of shortening with 1 cup of brown sugar and add a square of unsweetened chocolate which has been melted, 1 well beaten egg, 1/2 cup sweet milk and 1 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup flour and 3 teaspoons baking powder sifted well together. Beat hard and bake in 2 layer-cake pans for 35 minutes in a hot oven. Fill and spread top with the following:

Nut-Fudge Frosting—Put 1 1/2 cups of brown sugar, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 square of scraped unsweetened chocolate, a pinch of salt and 1/3 cup of sweet milk in a small saucepan and let this mixture heat slowly and boil to the "soft ball" stage (that is, when a little of it is dropped into cold water it forms a soft ball.) Then remove from the fire, add 1/2 cup of chopped nut-meats and beat till smooth and creamy. Spread on the warm cake at once.

Cheese Club Sandwiches
Cocoa Peach Custards

Cheese Club Sandwiches—Make a mustard butter as follows: Beat to a cream 1/4 cup of butter, add 1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard, a few drops of cider vinegar or lemon juice, and a few grains of paprika. Cut white bread into thin slices and toast it. Spread each piece with the mustard butter and put two pieces together with a little grated American cheese, chopped onions, a slice or two of ripe tomato, a piece of crisply fried bacon and a little salad dressing (the bottled prepared Mayonnaise will do when time is short.) These sandwiches are a little meal in themselves. A slice of chicken is a delicious addition but is not at all necessary. Or a hard boiled egg sliced may be added. The housewife can make them in ten minutes if she has all the ingredients prepared, ready for the bread to be toasted.

Peach Custards—Slice ripe peaches and heat to boiling point; drain and place the pieces in individual ramekins. Now make the custard by combining 1/2 cup sweet milk, 1/2 cup peach juice from the drained fruit, a pinch of salt, 2 lightly beaten eggs and 1/2 cup sugar. Cook in double boiler till slightly thickened, then add 1 drop almond extract and pour it over the peaches. Set ramekins in pan of hot water and bake 35 minutes in slow oven.

Tomorrow—Answered Letters.

JOAN DECIDES TO BE FAIR TO MARGARET

CHAPTER 44
It seemed to Joan when her mother discussed age that 20 years back was in the dark ages, that when she was 20 years older, she would feel old, and not care to do what young people did. But Mumsie let her do as she wanted to, and of course she should allow Mumsie the same privilege.

Sometimes she thought of what her mother once had said concerning her, Joan's marriage—that then she would be left alone and lonely. Of course that was all foolishness. Perhaps she would not marry but if she did Mumsie would always live with her.

"I couldn't get along without her!" she declared aloud, "As usual thinking of herself, so being unconsciously selfish."

Joan had a capacity for facing facts. She told her mother that really earnest-minded young people always did so instead of evading them as Gloria Freeman and Lonnie Carpenter did.

Joan enjoyed her own youth in such a tense way, self-conscious when she talked in this superior manner, yet not annoyingly so. So now she faced the fact that her mother was not quite happy and was disturbed.

"I want to be dead fair with Mumsie," she soliloquized, never dreaming how comical she was in deciding her mother's life—rather in attempting to decide it. "I'll not say on word—not if she buys clothes all the colors of the rainbow, and bobs her hair!" she shook her own bobbed golden curls emphatically. It was decided.

Mumsie should dress as she pleased.

A feeling of a disagreeable duty well performed possessed her. She had put aside her own feeling for Margaret's sake, although still unconvinced that it was either for the proper. Had it not been for the influence of Ted Walters' mother it is doubtful if she would have decided so emphatically in Margaret's favor.

So Margaret and Mrs. Walters shopped, and planned a gay season in New York when Joan should have entered college, and so Margaret be alone.

Margaret had been a trifle more anxious than usual over Joan's talk of the boys, her manner of deciding her feeling for them. But she comforted herself by the recollection that Joan had gone through the experiences of her 16 years very successfully.

Yet, naturally, after this she watched both boys as well as Joan more closely than ever. She knew the feeling of the time of young who were always in and out of the house in the wake of Joan, who was always their leader. They felt she was monopolizing the two most eligible boys. Ted was a New York boy for one thing which, as Hortense Thompson said, "made him different, and more fascinating than the home boys," although it was unquestioned that Malcolm was both brilliant and good-looking.

Fathers and mothers liked Malcolm this Margaret knew. He was personable with Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, also with the Freemans. Gloria and Hortense had at times shown a sort of jealousy of Joan because of him, yet not enough to lose Joan's friendship. That was one peculiarity about Joan. She held the friendship, the admiration of the girls even while they resented her popularity with the boys, because it invariably eclipsed their own.

Joan was a born leader. Her manner half-asserting, half arrogant, the girls found charming. So they gave way, when necessary, rather than lose her friendship.

Margaret told herself she was silly to worry over Joan's intimacy with either Malcolm or Ted that she was to be trusted to handle her own affairs. But she didn't quite succeed. "They are nothing but children," she told herself, and tried to find that fact soothing.

The more she watched Joan, the more puzzled she was. It seemed almost as if an epidemic of love-making had broken out among the boys and girls of her set. They sat in corners holding hands, or with arms about waists or flung over shoulders wandered in the early moonlight.

"I shall be glad when vacation is over," Margaret murmured when she saw Joan and Ted silhouetted against the glass, their heads close together.
